FIVE SPELLERS AWARDED PRIZES

Menallen Township Girl Gets First Prize, Gettysburg Girls Second and Third. Two Other Prizes Go to the County.

Out of the 176 young school boys and girls of Adams County who participated in the big spelling match Saturday afternoon five were awarded prizes and announced as the premier spellers of the county. The awards and winners are

First prize, $5.00 in gold, to Lillian M. Weener, aged 18 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur C. Weener, of Menallen township. Pupil in West Point School, Bruce B. Taylor teacher.

Second prize, $2.50 in gold, to Edith I. Sheely, 14 years, daughter of Mrs. W. C. Sheely, Gettysburg. Pupil in Gettysburg High School.

Third prize, $1.50, to Lillian M. Kitzmiller, 15 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Kitzmiller, Gettysburg. Pupil in Gettysburg High School.

Fourth prize, Webster's Academic Dictionary, to Edwin E. Mummert, son of Samuel Mummert, of Hamilton township. Pupil in Abbottstown High School, Ira E. Mummert teacher.

Fifth prize, the New Modern English Dictionary, to Blanche M. Stoops, daughter of Daniel Stoops, of Highland township. Pupil in Church School, D. Hill Rock, teacher.

The match was a complete success from start to finish. Of the 291 who qualified in the test the Saturday preceding, 176 appeared for the final Saturday afternoon in the Court house. They were seated within the railing and the remainder of the room was well filled with interested spectators.

The list of a thousand words was first used and only nineteen dropped out, leaving 157 to try the unfamiliar words. As the new words were pronounced the boys and girls traced themselves for the test and went to it right nobly. "Ameliorate" proved the downfall of a dozen or more. "Symbiate" mystified a number more and others fell before other words. A few had to leave early to take the 2:55 train on the Western Maryland and when 3:45 was registered some of those who still remained perfect were compelled to take the Reading train and it was with the greatest regret that they withdrew. One woman had no little difficulty in persuading her daughter that it was time to start for home.

The number was finally narrowed down to five after a test of well onto three hours. Finally Blanche M. Stoops was given the word "owing". It proved her downfall and the number was reduced to four. Edwin Mummert followed soon afterward when he doubled the "h" in "threshold". Lillian Kitzmiller spelled "symposium" with a "c" and the number was reduced to two girls, Lillian Weener and Edith Sheely.

Little Miss Sheely finally misspelled "exorcuate" and her opponent took it correctly, winning the laurels of the day, and incidentally putting a very happy climax to her eighteenth birthday. Edith Sheely's age appears in the premium list as 14 though she is still ten days from that age.

The greatest interest follows the contestants and it became very intense as the afternoon wore on. When the thousand word list was completed and so few had dropped out there was very general applause. The close of the contest was also greeted with a similar demonstration of approval.

The spellers represented the best school talent in the county and they were a likely looking lot.

County Superintendent H. Milton Roth, who had all arrangements in charge and who pronounced the words Saturday, deserves congratulations on the success of the event. The judges were Robert K. Major, of Straban township; Alice A. Miller, of Franklin township; and Miss Helen L. Cope of Gettysburg.

WRECK DERRICK JUMPS THE TRACK

Railroaders Near Littlestown Have Narrow Escape when Heavy Derrick Jumps from Track and Goes down Embankment.

When a heavy wrecking derrick rolled down an embankment near Littlestown Sunday evening members of the crew narrowly escaped losing their lives. All jumped and were unhurt.

The Northern Central wrecking crew was returning to York from the vicinity of Frederick, after a day's work in clearing away a freight wreck. Suddenly and without any apparent cause the 90-ton derrick became derailed and rolled down an embankment at Sell's station, a half mile from Littlestown. The engineer of the derrick and other members of the crew quickly jumped and saved their lives.

The Baltimore wreck crew, assisted by the others succeeded in placing the derrick on the track.

The wreck of the derrick was an unusual one and caused a delay to traffic for a short time, the track having been torn up for some distance.

COSTLY FIRE

Stable, Pigeons and Tobacco Cans are Destroyed in County Fire.

Fire of unknown origin destroyed a stable on the rear of J. G. McKinney's property, McSherrystown, early Friday morning, causing a loss of over $200. The fire was first seen by Roger A. Smith and Maurice Leppo, who at once rushed to the engine house and sounded the alarm. The volunteers, under Foreman James B. Devine, responded promptly, but the fire had made such headway that nothing could be done to check the flames. The entire stable was burned to the ground, together with fifty pairs of pigeons, valued at about $1.50, belonging to J. Burton McKinney; also, a lot of tobacco cans, the property of Robert J. McKinney, the cigar manufacturer.

There was no insurance on the property at this time, as Mr. McKinney had carried a policy for the past 25 years, but only a few months ago the policy expired and it had not been renewed.

BARN BURNED

Waynesboro Farmer Lost Between $6,000 and $8,000 in Fire.

The bank barn on the farm of Daniel Oller, near Rock Forge, tenanted by Aaron Hoffman, was burned together with its contents Saturday night. The fire was discovered by Mrs. Hoffman. Mr. Hoffman and his sons were in Waynesboro. Mrs. Hoffman and her two daughters saved two horses, but were driven from the stable by the flames before they could rescue the others.

Eight horses, 17 cattle, several hundred bushels of wheat, several hundred barrels of corn, 30 tons of hay, feed, many farming implements and vehicles were burned.

The loss is between $6,000 and $8,000 with a small insurance. The barn was valued at $3,000.

COMING BACK

John F. Walter Books Attraction for Manager Raymond.

John F. Walter has often been asked why he did not get "Seven Hours in New York" back for a return date. It will be remembered that this splendid musical comedy made a big hit when it was presented here over a year ago. Since then it has enjoyed great popularity everywhere. Two or three times Mr. Walter has received word from the owners asking about dates, but there always seemed to be something in the way. But a date has finally been settled upon, and "Seven Hours in New York" with a lot of new music and up-to-date comedy will be seen at Walter's Theatre early next month.—advertisement

SUNDAYBRINGS NO REST TO IRELAND

Officers Quit King's Service in Home Rule Crisis.

NEWSPAPERS SEE CIVIL WAR

Government Troops Pour into Ulster and Street Riots Are Feared in Belfast.

Belfast, Ireland, March 23.—Sunday brought no peace to Ireland.

Two companies of the Dorsetshire regiment are reported in mutiny, and army officers at all the military stations in Ireland are resigning rather than take up active service. The Marquis of Londonderry declared that he thought the resignations of the officers in such numbers was the first instance of the kind in the British army since the crisis preceding the war against the American colonies in 1775.

This news, telegraphed to London, caused much uneasiness and the king is reported to have sent a hurried message calling for Field Marshal Lord Roberts, hero of the Boer war, for a consultation. Newspapers in "war extra" editions predicted that the calm of Sunday would be followed by a fierce civil war with Belfast as the center of the bloodshed.

More than 100 officers of the king's troops have resigned their commissions rather than face the possibility of bearing arms against the Unionists in Ulster.

Sir Edward Carson is quoted as authority for the statement that 110,000 "loyal men of Ulster" are under arms, ably officered and divided into companies and regiments.

If home rule for Ireland is persisted in by the Redmondites, and if the present government attempts to make home rule effective in the counties of Ulster, Carson declares with passionate vehemence that the Ulster volunteer troops will fight till the last man is dead or until home rule is forever foregone.

If, on the other hand, no attempt is made to include the counties of Ulster in the Irish parliament and scheme of government, the Ulster Unionist clan will remain passive and fulfill its present allegiance as a unit of the government of Great Britain.

British troops poured into the city, ordered out as a matter of "police protection," it was declared by the war office. The attendance at the churches was very small and many ministers purposely avoided any expression of sentiment that might be indicative of the impending war, for the trouble will amount to war, all factual newspapers agreed.

Sir Edward Carson, the Unionist leader, presided at a council of war held in Craigavon. The others present at the conference were Sir George Richardson, commander-in-chief of the Ulster volunteer troops, and forty officers, representing the full strength of the Ulster "Unionist army." After the conference Sir Edward Carson made this bare statement: "The government is attempting to cow Ulster by intimidation and provocation, but that will fail."

Lord Charles Beresford, a strong advocate of the Ulster cause, in a letter to the press, says:

"I know for a fact that many naval officers, including those of high rank and some of the best men we possess, will resign their commissions if ordered to take part in the coercion of Ulster, or even if the army alone is utilized for that purpose."

Lord Charles contends that the arguments that the officers and men who refuse to coerce Ulster might refuse in the future to participate in the quelling of riots does not hold good, there being no comparison, he says, between civil war and a riot.

NOT TOO DEAD TO ARREST

Supposed Widow Gets Warrant For Long-Missing Husband.

Altoona, Pa., March 23.—Edward Glass, of Pittsburgh, supposed to be dead, will be brought to Blair county this week to answer the charge of deserting his wife and two children here sixteen years ago. The local authorities were notified of his arrest.

After Glass disappeared his wife received apparently authentic information of his death, but recently an Altoona relative died, and from friends who came to attend the funeral she learned that he was still living, so she promptly swore out a warrant for his arrest.

Think Man Dead In Hotel a Suicide.

Cumberland, Md., March 23.—Indications point to suicide as the cause of the death of R. L. Sappington, of Philadelphia, travelling salesman, at the Hotel Luzerne, Bellington, W. Va. POLICE HAVE CLUE TO LOST BOY

McCarrick Lad Seen in Clementon, N. J., Saturday Night.

WAS WITH THREE MEN

Accurate Description of Party Furnished Police and Railroad Detectives, Who Are Scouring the Country

Philadelphia, March 23.—Detectives who were hurried to Clementon, N. J., to follow a clue to the missing Warren McCarrick, telephoned back to Detective Lieutenant Tate that they believed that they were on the trail of the boy.

Two residents of the town declare that they saw a boy whom they believe to be Warren McCarrick at the Reading railroad station in Clementon, N. J., Saturday night about eight o'clock.

The boy was observed by Albert Hicks, a colored man. Another man, William Smith, also saw the lad. Both Smith and Hicks were attracted to the boy because he was weeping and seemed to be trying to escape from the grasp of one of the three men with him.

Railroad detectives in the service of the Pennsylvania and the Reading railroads were hastily notified, and they joined in the search. All station agents were cautioned not to leave their posts and to hold up and arrest any trespassers along the line of the road. The police of Atlantic City were also notified.

The $6000 reward that is offered for the return of the lad and the character of his abductors spurred many citizens to join in the chase.

In the meantime Mr. and Mrs. McCarrick, the parents of the boy, are on the verge of a nervous breakdown.

Small reels of photographs of the missing lad will be made by the Lubin Manufacturing company and by that concern will be distributed to the moving picture theaters. Within the next two weeks the pictures will be shown in several thousand moving picture theaters all over the country and will be seen by at least fifteen million persons during that time.

While this publicity feature is important and a welcome aid, the detectives do not wax too hopeful that it will lead to results.

A similar enterprise in the search for a little girl lost in Indiana and believed to have been kidnapped by gypsies a year ago, proved unavailing.

On the other hand, the "movies" were responsible for locating a little girl abducted by her father and finally found in Japan, where "movie" theaters displayed her picture.

2785 MINERS DIE IN YEAR

Fatalities in 1913 Increase Over 1912 in Spite of Precautions.

Washington, March 23.—The year 1913 was more fatal for coal miners in the United States than the preceding twelve months.

A report issued by the bureau of mines showed an increase of fatalities of 425 over 1912, and twelve deaths for every working day in the year.

In the army of 728,355 underground workers, 2785 perished, a fatality rate of 3.82 in every 1000 men employed, as compared with 3.27 in 1912.

Six thousand more men were employed in 1913 and the increase in production was between 30,000,000 and 40,000,000 tons.

HEAD DOWN A MILE TO DIE

Shock More Fatal to Farmer Than Injuries, Even Then.

Bethlehem, Pa., March 23.—While hauling a wagonload of household goods from one farm to another at Switzer, Jeremiah Schrader was dragged headlong for more than a mile along a rough, frozen country road and killed.

The horses ran away, and Schrader, in trying to jump from the wagon, caught a foot in an iron railing and fell between the frightened horses.

Schrader was probably shocked to death, as an examination showed only a fractured jaw and broken arm, with lacerations to the head.

River Gives Up Girl's Body.

Philadelphia, March 23.—The body of twenty-two-year-old Anna O'Donnell, of 1432 South Second street, who fell into the Delaware river at Dock street, while on her way to Camden with two young men at midnight on Jan. 31, was recovered by the crew of the Ashbridge at the same place. Michael O'Donnell, a brother, identified the body at the morgue. The belief that the girl was the victim of foul play was set at rest by detectives, who said that there was not a mark of violence.

Uncle and Nephew Held For Theft.

Wilmington, Del., March 23.—James and Martin Zebley, uncle and nephew, have been arrested by the police and are alleged to have confessed to robbing the Capitol Jewelry store at 4 East Seventh street, of jewelry valued at about $1000. All the stolen articles have been recovered or located by the police.

STEEL MILLS IN COKE FIELDS

Trust to Erect Gigantic Plant and Save Freight on Fuel.

Waynesboro, Pa., March 23.—Green county, thanks to her great deposits of the finest coking coal, is to become one of the great industrial centers of the state.

This fact was learned when it became known that the United States steel trust is planning to erect an immense plant in Perry township on the property purchased a few weeks ago by H. C. Frick.

The coal acreage bought by Mr. Frick aggregates 10,000 acres, the finest in the county. He also optioned 15,000 acres of coal lands owned by J. V. Thompson.

Orders have been given for the building of an extension of the Monongahela River railroad (Pittsburgh & Lake Erie) into Perry township.

Several thousand coke ovens will be built, and the coke necessary for the operation of the furnace and steel mills will be produced within a short distance of the works.

In addition to this projected plant, it is known that the steel corporation, through one of its subsidiaries, purchased a large farm in Dunkard township, which adjoins Perry. According to information from Point Marion, a steel steel making plant will be erected on the property. It is close to this point that agents have been seeking a site for the proposed new government armor plate plant.

AGED VETERANS MEET

Survivors of Mexican War Meet When They Meet in Pottsville.

Pottsville, Pa., March 23.—Thomas Wilkins, of Conshohocken, a veteran of the Mexican War, met Colonel Daniel Nagle, the only surviving Mexican War veteran of this section.

The two men had not seen each other since General Scott's army was discharged, when both were yet under twenty years old.

Wilkins wept as Colonel Nagle recalled events and deeds of persons long since dead. Wilkins formerly lived in Port Carbon, a town he has not seen for fifty years, and after a pathetic search of the borough was unable to find a single person he once knew.

KILLS SELF IN VIEW OF BROTHERS

'I Am Going to Commit Suicide,' Man Declared.

HE THEN FIRED SHOTGUN

Fired Shot in Air to Attract Attention of Kin—He Then Threatened to Kill Them If They Interfered.

Federalburg, Md., March 23.—In view of his three brothers, John B. Gallagher, forty-four years old, living here, committed suicide by shooting himself with a shotgun.

Shortly after breakfast Gallagher walked out toward the barn, his three brothers following a short distance behind. Procuring a shotgun, which he had borrowed from his sister, Mrs. Victor Dean, and secreted in the barn, he stepped across a little ravine and fired a shot into the air.

His brothers thought he had fired at a bird, but he turned to them and said: "Brothers, I am going to commit suicide, and if you interfere I will kill you."

The brothers were horrified, but tried to persuade him not to commit the act. Placing the gun on the ground with the barrel pointing upward he placed his face at the muzzle and pressed the trigger with a cane.

Gallagher was subject to extreme nervousness, which he contracted during a six years' stay in Mexico, and to this is attributed the despondency that resulted in his suicide.

Sale to begin at 11 o'clock. A credit of 11 months will be given to all purchases of five dollars and over by purchasers giving their notes with approved security. 4 per cent. off for cash.

CARING FOR CHILDREN'S FEET

It is most important to a child's welfare that it should have the right kind of shoes.

Just any kind will not do--ill-fitting ones are likely to leave troubles that will cause much suffering in after life.

Many able shoemakers have spent years in studying the needs of children's feet. They have designed shoes on correct lines, have made them of right leathers, and have built them with honest workmanship.

It is not our purpose to sing the praises of any one make or kind.

The right shoes are not hard to find. Every good storekeeper knows them and carries them.

First choose your dealer with care--you will find the advertisements of the better ones in this newspaper from day to day.

Sometimes they specialize on a particular kind or make of shoes. At all times they are willing to aid the anxious seeker for foot comfort with friendly and reliable advice.

First be sure of the dealer--and an excellent introduction to the right one will be his advertisement in this newspaper.

Need for Books for the Blind.

It is estimated that there are about one million blind people under the protection of the British flag who are only able to read with their fingers. The Braille books are an inestimable boon, but so expensive as only to be enjoyed, without some practical assistance, by the well-to-do.

Simple Cure for Headache.

One of the quickest known ways of dispelling a headache is to give some of the muscles--those of the legs, for instance--a little hard, sharp work to do. The reason is obvious. Muscular exertion flushes the parts engaged in it, and so depletes the brain. When your head aches take a stiff walk or a short bicycle ride.

A BIT OF WAX

By WILLARD BLAKEMAN

I had gone out to India to serve as an accountant in a banking house; but, becoming homesick, I decided to return to America. A few days before I sailed the head of the firm called me into his private office and told me that a client of the house desired that I carry for him to Boston a valuable sapphire. He would pay me handsomely for its delivery in that city.

I needed the money and accepted the commission. I called for it the day I sailed, wearing a coat with a pocket in the lining, in which the sapphire was sewed by an Indian woman who was called in for the purpose, though she did not see the contents of the pocket or know that there was a pocket there.

My route was by Aden, the Suez Canal, the Mediterranean and over the Atlantic to New York, quite a long journey and all in the same vessel. I made the acquaintance of an American lady, Mrs. Gillette, whose maid was a young Indian woman.

The lady told me that shortly before she sailed the woman--Susan she was called, because her Indian name was hard to pronounce--bearing that she was in tending to sail for America, came and begged her to take her with her as her maid, with no compensation except paying for her passage.

The lady, who was subject to seasickness and wished some one to wait on her, consented.

Mrs. Gillette was ill in rough weather, but well on a smooth sea

Susan took very good care of her.

Since I had told no one that I carried a valuable gem and no one except myself and the man through whom it came to me knew where it was, I felt very little fear of losing it. I simply wore the coat in which it was sewed by day and used it for a pillow by night, so that it was always either on my back or under my head. But one thing occurred during the voyage to cause me to suspect the possibility of any one being on my track. One day when about to enter my state room I noticed something white not as big as a pea on the floor directly under the lock. I have no idea what induced me to pick it up, but I did so and, crushing it between my thumb and forefinger, found it to be wax. Could any one have been taking an impression of the lock on my state room door? I dismissed the suggestion at once as farfetched.

We had left Gibraltar and were nearing the Azores when one morning I awoke with a head swimming sensation. I smelled a peculiar odor in the room. I put up my hand to grasp my coat, for I felt that my head was without support, and was horrified to find the coat was not there. I arose and looked about the room for it as best I could, but it was not in the room. I tried the door and found it locked. The key I had concealed under my mattress. It was where I had placed it.

The remembrance of the bit of wax I had found came back to me as the only clue to this robbery. If an impression had been made for a key the key must have been made aboard the ship. It could not have been filed without the filing being heard. Doubtless it had been made in the ship's workshop. I went below and asked the man in charge of the metal working shop if he had been called to make a key. He said that he had not, but, after some thought, said that one of the stewards had been in the shop filing something. He remembered the steward, and we found him.

I reported the matter to the captain who called the steward before him and obtained a confession that he had been tipped by a lady's maid to do some filing on a key. When called upon to identify the lady's maid he pointed out Mrs. Gillette's Indian girl Susan.

Before Susan got wind of the matter a stewardess took her in charge and another went through her effects.

My coat was found among them, but the sapphire was missing. We were obliged to tie a rope around Susan threatening to put her overboard, before she broke down and told us where she had concealed it.

No blame whatever was attached to Mrs. Gillette. She had not the slightest conception that her maid was not only a thief, but had entered her service knowing that she was about to leave for America on the same steamer as I and believing that I carried the sapphire.

This is the explanation of how Susan acquired this information. She had been chambermaid in the hotel where the owner of the sapphire stayed and had suddenly entered the room and seen him handling it. She had watched him and had seen him go to the bank. There she had succeeded in making the acquaintance of the woman who had done the sewing on my coat. This was enough. A brother of hers had got from the passenger list of the steamer on which I was to sail the names of several ladies. Susan had gone to each of these ladies, proposing to go with her as maid, and had been successful with Mrs. Gillette.

Susan was kept in limbo to the end of the voyage, when I went ashore.

I learned afterward that she was taken back to India, being made to do menial work on the return voyage. What became of her after reaching India I do not know.

The incident convinced me that the natives of Asia are very shrewd.
